GOOD CORN CROPS REPORTED

Late Fields Were Damaged by the Recent Frost.

Most of the corn crop was mature enough to escape any great damage from the recent frost, according to crop reports from the different states for the week ending October 2, received by E. A. Logan, agricultural statistician for Missouri. Late fields and fields on low land were damaged to some extent, but such corn will be fed out at once, and the damage will be small. Kentucky and Oklahoma report bumper crops, and the leading corn growing states of the central section report the crop as very good.

About fifteen to seventeen per cent of the crop in Iowa will be soft and Indiana, Maryland, Ohio, Tennessee and Virginia report many fields as still green or maturing very slowly. Much corn in southern and central Illinois has fallen an account of high winds, soft wet soil, heavy rains and the shallow root system. The crop in Michigan was shortened by drought in the southwestern section and is poorly cared in North Dakota for the same reason. The dry land crop in Montana is good.

The seeding of winter wheat is making excellent progress, and soil moisture conditions with few exceptions are very good. Early sown wheat is up to a good stand. The harvesting of spring wheat is practically complete and threshing is in progress. The yield per acre is about as usual in Wyoming.

The production of oats in South Dakota is excellent and of a very high quality. Seeding of fall oats is in progress in Arkansas, Florida and Mississippi and the bulk of the crop is now in Tennessee. The germination is good.

Cotton picking is becoming general in all sections, although the crop is maturing very slowly in Missouri, Tennessee and Virginia.

The digging of Irish potatoes is in progress in most states, and the yield and quality are generally quite satisfactory. The prospects for a sweet potato crop is quite promising and digging is in progress. The recent cold weather benefited the crop by tending to hasten the maturity.

The production and quality of the hay crop is good. Harvesting of the third alfalfa crop is about completed in Colorado and the fourth crop in Kansas. Pastures and ranges are generally excellent for this time of the year.

HOMECOMING PLANS - GROW

Alumni Show Enthusiasm Already—May Be Special Trains.

Plans for homecoming, the sale of Old Guard buttons and other student activities were discussed at the meeting of the University Students Council Wednesday in Y. M. C. A. Building. Z. C. Cleveland, director of athletics of the University, was present at the meeting, in order to become better acquainted with student activities.

Herbert Draper, chairman for homecoming, says that some alumni are already planning to visit Columbia. The first letter asking for room reservations has been received. Fred Elden says that a special train probably will be run from St. Louis to accommodate the alumni who will attend the Homecoming Day celebration.

About 200 Old Guard buttons remain to be sold. Miss Margaret Hankins and Miss Floy Joslyn are in charge of this work.

The financial report of the Savitar was made. Mr. Elden says that a committee will be appointed to audit the books and report later.

The council will co-operate with the Law School and School of Engineering to make their football game Saturday a success.

Lingerie Suggestions

It is quite natural for women to take pride and delight in their lingerie, with Fashion suggesting ones so dainty and irresistible. But the new fall undergarments have even more fineness and originality; fine lace, hand embroidery and dainty knots fastened so artistically, and hemstitching, add to make each garment more luxurious.

Delicate crepe de chimes, satins, silks and silk jerseys are made into teddies, bloomers, combinations, camisoles, petticoats and nightgowns. You will find that we have a complete line in lingerie.

Choosing Fall Frocks

In selecting clothes for fall and winter the woman and girl, not only wants frocks that are becoming and different, but ones that are made of materials that alone portray richness and durability. We have chosen frocks this season with these qualities, and have kept the economical viewpoint in mind, so that the fashion-loving girl may have quality and style combined with little expense. The tricotone ones are fashioned into charming models much different than ever before. While the others are suitable for all occasions.
